

#REVIEWS & AUDITS

Anthropological analysis that's geared toward action, going beyond the descriptive and using interdisciplinary methods to help you probe unexamined and unnamed dynamics, and then identify the systems, logics and trends that are shaping your work.

#ORGANISATIONAL DESIGN

Creative re-imagining of internal structures, roles, recruitment, procedures and operational policies to make 'accountability to purpose' the driving force while working to embed a (self-) critical culture of learning that will help to ground the work and stay on track.

#STRATEGY

Applying organisational ethnography (internal) and context mapping (external) to uncover the mission, strategy, and methods that no other actor is better positioned to implement, so your organisation can feel confident charting a course that's vocational and politically relevant.

#EVENTS

Event design and facilitation that helps you put diverse thinking, experience and human connection front-and-centre, adds energy, and integrates purpose in every logistical detail, from the most visible to the important behind-the-scenes preparation.

#STRATEGIC COMMS

Methods and practices that better reflect why people change and why they stay the same by applying what we know about the quirks of human behaviour from social and organisational psychology, media and political campaigns, art and culture, marketing and movements.
